Hi Margo: You're welcome. That matrix was compiled by our consultant TIG (The Intelligence Group) Environmental. I don't agree with all of TIG Environmental's conclusions (and neither does Knauf Shaw), particularly regarding ranking of the parties.

But that matrix gives voluminous information as to what we, Knauf Shaw, and TIG Environmental developed insofar as PRP information for upstream generator parties (with the exception of the U.S. DOD).

I will send that to you in the morning, along with some other documents that should help flesh out the PRP info. we developed. As you or Jim indicated on the call, R2 likely already has much of this information developed.

If R2 thinks it would be better to issue a 104(e) letter to RACER, feel free to do so. We're prepared to provide you with 100% of the information we've developed one way or another.

Keep in mind that TIG Env'l did not focus at all on the potential liability of Onondaga County. So that information RACER developed more or less on its own, with some help from Knauf Shaw.

Thanks. --Carl

Carl,

Thank you, again, for the presentation last week and for sharing a PDF copy of the slides. Page 22 of the PDF appears to be the start of a table titled, "Potential Generator PRPs & PCB Nexus to OU-2," which I believe you referred to during the presentation as a "master matrix" compiled by RACER or your consultant. Are you able to send the entirety of that table/matrix to EPA? Please feel free to give me a call if you have any concerns or would like to speak further.

Much appreciated,

Margo

Dear R2 Team: Here's the presentation, in PDF form. Should be easier to page through now. Thank you for your time in participating on our call today. --Carl
